

Q-Design Update: Release Notes

Please read the following documentation detailing the changes and usability of this release. Contact support@e-quantum.com with your questions.

Enhancements

- Q-Design template selection screen will now automatically display the last ten templates that were edited. The user can also still search by Client ID, Item ID, Template ID, or Template Description. The user can also still click Select All to view a listing of all templates. The Last Ten button will revert the listing to the last ten templates edited.
- The list of global variables in Q-Design can now be accessed from the template selection screen with the Template Variables button.

- Verbiage on the Cancel button on the user's template input form can now be customized with a Custom Message
- Variables can not be deleted from the global list unless they are no longer being used on a template
- Variables can not be removed from a template unless they are no longer referenced in any of the template's objects or dependencies.

Bug Fixes

- Cloned template correctly pulls over image select variable options
- Page Displayed After Add functionality has been corrected for Q-Design items added from the Favorites catalog
